A dash of nostalgia with JUKI's HZL-11!

One of Karen Pharr's, JUKI National Educator, new treasures is the Frou Frou HZL-11. The Frou Frou was released in 1977 for 69,000 yen (roughly $650) as a lightweight, compact sewing machine.

One of the amazing features of this machine was the horizontal hook. A rare feature as lightweight sewing machines at that time used vertical hook.

Besides straight stitch, the HZL-11 has the ability to create horizontal stitches. Perfect for tailoring your pantsuit or bell-bottoms!

The machine came with a matching carrying case and separate light. With its mid-century design, the Frou Frou is sure to bring back nostalgia!

Rule your quilt!

Is ruler work part of your quilting process? JUKI has the perfect 1/4" Quilting Foot for you!

With a distance of 1/4" from the needle entry point to the outer edge of the presser foot, free motion quilting using a ruler has never been easier!
